About the College

Loyola College of Education (LCE) is a Jesuit teacher education institution established in June 2007 and owned and administered by the Loyola College Society. Located within the campus of Loyola College of Arts & Science, Nungambakkam, Chennai, LCE is recognized by the National Council for Teacher Education (NCTE), affiliated to Tamil Nadu Teachers Education University (TNTEU), and accredited with an 'A' Grade by the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC).

LCE is committed to the integral formation of student-teachers, fostering intellectual development, character formation, professional competence, and social responsibility. The institution provides diverse opportunities for student-teachers to develop their intellectual, physical, creative, and social potential through academic, sports, cultural, artistic, and other co-curricular activities.

As part of its commitment to social responsibility, LCE organizes rural exposure camps, provides opportunities for student-teachers to teach and support students from disadvantaged backgrounds in schools, and facilitates visits to old-age homes to interact with and support the elderly. These experiences nurture empathy, compassion, social awareness, and a spirit of service, preparing student-teachers to become responsible, value-oriented, and socially conscious educators.

About the Conference

In a world being rapidly reshaped by technological innovation, evolving learner needs, and pressing global challenges, education must go beyond transmitting knowledge, it must prepare learners to think critically, adapt continuously, and grow responsibly.

EduFutura'26: Reimagining Education, Sustainable Innovation, and the Future of Humanity is an international conference that seeks to provide a vibrant platform for academics, researchers, educators, practitioners, scholars and students to exchange ideas and engage in meaningful dialogue on the changing landscape of education, innovation, society and human development. The conference brings together diverse perspectives from education, humanities, social sciences, technology, culture, arts and related disciplines to explore emerging opportunities, contemporary challenges and future possibilities.

The conference recognises that the future of humanity is shaped not only by technological and educational advancements, but also by our understanding of culture, values, identity, creativity, social justice and human relationships. EduFutura'26 therefore encourages interdisciplinary dialogue and research that connects knowledge, innovation and human values towards a more inclusive, sustainable and meaningful future.

Objectives of the Conference

- Provide a platform for researchers, educators, scholars and students to present and exchange contemporary research and innovative ideas.
- Explore emerging trends and transformative approaches in education, humanities, social sciences, technology and related fields.
- Encourage interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary perspectives on issues concerning humanity, education, society and human development.
- Promote collaboration and knowledge-sharing among academics, institutions, researchers and practitioners.
- Encourage critical reflection on emerging challenges and opportunities that may shape the future of education and humanity.
- Foster research and innovative thinking towards a sustainable, inclusive and human-centred future.

Target Group

The conference welcomes Principals, Administrators, Faculty Members, and Research Scholars from Higher Education Institutions, as well as School Teachers and School Heads.
